SOMEBODY.

Sombody's eyes have grown dimmer,
Off in some quaint old home.
At morn, when the evening stars glimmer,
Watching for some one to come;
Watching, while heart grows the sicker,
As day after day glides along;
Watching, while tears fall the thicker,
Choking the baby song.

Somebody wandering over
Lands far away from his own,
Seeks a home, a mother, a lover,
That grew by the old door stone;
Longs to go back and to mingle,
As in the old days of yore;
With those 'round the old cottage bough,
Those who, alas! are no more.

Somebody's prayers are ascending
Ever for dian ones awa';
Prays that His blessing attending
May keep them from going astray;
Prays that float nea' and nearer,
And reaching the bower above,
Are answered in infinite love!

Somebody's life's work is ended—
Patient they wait now to go;
Long have they labored, toiled,
Toiling, until their day is done;
Soon the reward they'll be reaping
That to the faithful is given—

"Well done!" Come up, and be keeping
Watch for somebody in Heaven!

Somebody ever is weeping,
Reckless-like mourning her dead,
Shunning all comfort and keeping
Vigil while stars are o'erhead;
Oh! that such heart, whose feeling
Shuts out the thought of "I'll will,"

Gleads' calm, with its healing.

Would come and the wild throbbing still!

Somebody's heart has grown weary,
Weary of watching for aye,
The sun goes down, and now so dreary,
The moon and in the dark, etc.

When life shall roll onward forever,
As peacefully solemn and grand

As rolls on Eternity's River,
That washes Eternity's strand!

THE CHILDREN.

When the lessons and tasks are all ended,
And the school for the day is dismissed,

The little ones gather around me

To bid me "Good-night," and be kissed.

On the little white arms that encircle

My neck in tender embrace;

Oh, the smiles that are halos of heaven,

Shedding sunbeams of love on my face.

And when they are gone, I sit dreaming

Of my childhood too lonely to last;

Or just that my heart is too full,

While it aches to the pulse of the past,

Be it well, and its weakness made me

A partner of sorrow and sin.

When the glory of God was about me,

And the glory of gladness within,

I ask not a life for the dear ones,

All radiant, as others have done;

But that life may have just enough shadow

To temper the glare of sun;

I would pray God to guard them from evil;

Alas! a soul may pray for a sinner,

But a sinner may not pray for himself.

I shall leave the old house in the autumn,

To take up my threshold no more;

Oh how I shall sigh for the dear ones!

That meet me each morn in the door;

Shall miss the "Good-nights," and the kisses,

And the gush of their innocent glee.

The group on the green and the flowers

That are brought every morning for me.

Miscellaneous.

A Delightful Legend.

There is a charming tradition connected with the site on which the temple of Solomon was erected. It is said to have been occupied in common by two brothers, one of whom had a family; the other had none. On this spot was sown a field of wheat.

On the evening succeeding the harvest, the wheat having been gathered in separate shocks, the elder brother said to his wife,—

"My elder brother is unable to bear the heat and burden of the day; I will arise, take my shocks and place them with him, without his knowledge."

The younger brother being actuated by the same benevolent motives, said without himself,—

"My elder brother has a family, I have none; I will contribute to their support, I will arise, take my shocks and place them with him, without his knowledge."

Wonder why mother keeps Bridget home from church to work all day, and then says it is wicked for me to build my rabbit house on Sunday?

Wonder why our minister bought that pretty cane, with the yellow lion's head on the top, and then asks me for my cent to put in the missionary box? Don't I want a jewsharp just as well as he wanted a cane?

Wonder what makes papa tell such nice stories about hiding the master's rattle when he went to school, and about his running away from the school mistress when she was going to whip him, then shut me up all day in a dark room because I tried just once to be as smart as he was?

Wonder what made papa say that wicked word when Betsy upset the ink all over his papers, and then slap my ears because I said the same thing when my kite string broke?

Wonder why mama told Bridget the other day to say that she was not at home when Tommy Day's mother called, and then puts me to bed without any supper every night I tell a lie?

Oh, dear! there is lots of things I want to know. How I wish I was a man.

The smallest rule we lay ourselves under necessity of observing is of great benefit, as it teaches us some parts of the government of ourselves, as it keeps up tenderness of mind, as it presents God often to our thoughts, and brings a sense of our religion into the ordinary actions of our common life.

God's commandments hang together; they are knit and woven together, like a fine web, wherein you cannot loosen a single stitch without danger of unraveling the whole. If a man lives in the breach of any of God's commandments, if he allows himself to indulge in any one sin, none can tell where he will stop. There is no letting any one devil into our souls, without the risk of his going and fetching "sev'n other devils, wiskader than himself;" and the purer the house may hitherto have been, the more eager will they be to come and lodge in it.

He who respects and holds his word sacred himself will have it respected and trusted by others.

God With Us.

God with man! with ourselves! How inspiring the doctrine! Art thou a pilgrim, walking in perplexed ways! He is thy guide. "In all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths." Thou art a creature of affliction and sorrow. He is with thee as thou passest through the water and through the fire. "Call upon him in the day of trouble; he shall deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify him." Thou art tempted. But he is thy shield and strong tower. "In that he suffered, being tempted." Dost thou feel thine own littleness and insignificance? Thy God thinketh upon thee. "The hairs of your head are all numbered."

"You are of more value than many sparrows." Thou mayst be little and unknown among men, but a precious diamond in the hand of thy God. "He is nigh unto thee in all that thou callest on him for." Various and changing may be the scenes through which thou passest. — But all shall be tempered by his wisdom for thine own advantage. "All things work together for good unto them that love him." Thou shalt die. When thou walkest through the valley of the shadow of death he shall be with thee. Thou shalt moulder in the dust. But thy flesh also shall rest in hope;" for "in his book all thy members are written." And while adoring "Him that sitteth upon the throne," and "the Lamb which is in the midst of the stuns, with a sack slung across his shoulder. — And thus he accosted the venerable "Aunty:"

"Well, Aunty, what's that chicken pie worth?"

"Fourteen dollars, massa. Cheap at dat."

"Well, I haint no money, but here's four pounds of sugar in this sack, I'll give you for as much of one as I can eat."

"Dat's a trade, shore. Here's de pie."

Alabama ate about three-fourths of the pie, straightened himself up, and handed over the sack, telling her that as the pie was so nice she might have the sack too.

The old woman thanked him, but the soldier had watched for a busy moment to hand over his payment, and while the pie-maker was waiting on others, he wended his way back to where bullets were whistling, where he would be tried from prosecution.

After a lull in her business, the old woman concluded to examine into the nature of her trade, and on opening the sack and peeping in, she exclaimed:

"Humph, mighty purty sugar," and reaching down her hand for a more minute inspection immediately, her eyes dilated; her face elongated, and mouth protruding beyond her nasal appendage, growled:

"Nuffin but sand."

A Decisive Report.

There is a magistrate in a town in Indiana named Hesler. A clergyman in the same place was called upon by a young couple, not long since, who wished him to join them in the holy bonds of matrimony. He asked the bridegroom (a soldier by the way) for his marriage license. The man in blue responded by saying that he had been engaged to the girl for four years, and thought that would do. The Clergyman thought not, and remarked as the speediest way to obtain a license,—

"You had better take your girl and go to Hesler."

"You can go to hell yourself!" retorted the angry veteran.

And seizing the bride by the arm, he dragged her from the house, wondering what manner of a profane minister he had met with.

Young America Wonders.

Wonder why mother keeps Bridget home from church to work all day, and then says it is wicked for me to build my rabbit house on Sunday?

Wonder why our minister bought that pretty cane, with the yellow lion's head on the top, and then asks me for my cent to put in the missionary box? Don't I want a jewsharp just as well as he wanted a cane?

"When I entered the service," said Ike, "I thought of marrying a girl worth $10,000, but soon after I left the State she married another chap!"

At a prayer meeting recently held not far from New Haven, an earnest brother whose zeal surpassed his intelligence, offered this petition:—"O Lord have mercy upon us poor miserable sinners, of which I am the chieftest among ten thousand and one altogether lovely."

"When I entered the service," said Ike, "I thought of marrying a girl worth $10,000, but soon after I left the State she married another chap!"

"O Lord have mercy upon us poor miserable sinners, of which I am the chieftest among ten thousand and one altogether lovely."

Every employee of the Vicksburg Herald office has been bound over to keep the peace for two years, and the Herald informs the public that the "fighting editor" will not be "in" for that length of time.

By annihilating the desires, you annihilate the mind. Every man without passion has within him no principle of action or motive to act.

It is often better to have a great deal of harm to happen than a little; a great deal may rouse you to remove what a little will only accusation you to endure.

Sentimental youth: "My dear girl, will you share my lot for life?" Practical girl: "How many acres are there in your lot, sir?"

He who respects and holds his word sacred himself will have it respected and trusted by others.

Slippery business—investing in oil speculations.

Chicken Pie.

When the two armies were entrenched around the city of Petersburg, Va., there were many little incidents transpiring almost daily, to relieve the fatigue and anxieties constantly upon the minds of the boys."

In the rear of "Wilcox's old Brigade," Mahone's Division, which was situated just on the right of Harris' Mississippi boys, was a long hollow leading to within some fifty yards of the line, where there was a spring of elegant water, shaded by a majestic oak. This was in a great measure sequestered from the enemy's missiles, and great numbers of the free negroes from Petersburg, used to bring their truck—"pies and

"Dutch Reasoning.

A drunken Dutchman was recently arrested by a saloon keeper and sued for "unpaid drunks." He scored the advice of counsel, or assistance of attorneys, and delivered himself for the edification of the Court of the following ingenious plea:

"May it please your honor! To borrow is the first principle of nature. Does not the river borrow from the brook, and the ocean from the river? Does not the cloud borrow from the air, and the earth from the clouds? Does not the moon borrow her light from the sun, and the night borrow it again from the moon? Was not man taken from the earth and his 'fraw' borrowed from his side? Since then, all nature has established this great system of Universal credit, why should not man, made in the image of God, have a natural claim on the credit system? And since the mighty ocean is not ashamed to borrow of the pu-

"ay river, why, then, should not a lean 'bunner' borrow from a fat barkeeper?

Now, your honor knows the feeble-lighted moon never returns the borrowed light to the sun, why then should a poor beer-drinker pay a rich beer seller?

It is contrary to natural law, it is an absurdity. But what does the river do when it has borrowed too much from the brooks and streams? It runs away. Nature, then, has set me an example. I will follow it and run away."

And before the sheriff could reach him, he had cleared the court-house and was out of reach. The most ingenious way to get drinks cheap, surely!

A Bit of a Sliver.

California has long been celebrated for "big things," animal and vegetable, and the following adds to the list:—

Before Justice F.—, at San Juan, Nevada county, was brought an Hibernian, charged with assault and battery upon a fellow countryman. Many witnesses were examined; and, finally Jimmy C.— was called to the stand.

"Mr. C.—, state what you know about this case."

"Well, your honor, Barney and Patrick had a bit of a quarrel about some wood they had been cutting. They were standing near the wood-pile in front of the house, and after jawing a little, Barney picked up a bit of a sliver, and gave Patrick a little tap on the head, and he went over on the wood pile—and that was all there was of it."

Justice F.—. "You say Barney hit Patrick on the head with a bit of a sliver. What kind of a sliver was that?"

"Well, your honor, 'twas a small thing—a bit of a chip."

"But we want to know how big it was; give us your idea of about the size of it."

"Well, your honor, (after some hesitation,) I think it was about two feet long, and about as big round as my wrist!"

Economy.

"What are ye after, Barney?"

"Writing a letter sure."

"And where would you be after sending it to?"

"It is not my intention to send it at all. Isn't a copper as good in my pocket as in the post

PAINTED.

THIS Lamp apparently burns without anything to feed it. It has, however, a matrice, which absorbs the liquid and gives it the form, partly from the wick, and partly from the gas, but so as to produce perfect combustion, and is very economical and safe.

It is used with a chimney, and perfectly trimmed, does not smoke or smell; it is therefore especially adapted to the purposes of a "run about," night, nurse, shop or hotel lamp or lantern. The cost of broken chimneys, alone, will more than pay the cost of this lamp. Every family needs one or more.

THE ADAMS SENTINEL AND GENERAL ADVERTISER.

Who is J. N.?
Everybody knows J. N., but few know his history. Those who know best hesitate what to call him. The Cleveland Leader gives the following personal sketch:

"J. N." is Mr. J. N. Free, formerly of Ohio; now of the world. He is about 40 years of age, tall and erect, with a powerful frame. He wears long hair, has a piercing eye, but over all is cast the peculiar look and acting of a monomaniac.

Ten years ago Mr. Free was a thriving business man. He was considered a man of more than ordinary literary attainments, possessing a strong intellect and considerable talent. About the year 1855 he was doing business in California; and brooding over extensive losses, on the sea and land, that followed in quick succession, he became demented. Since that time, in an inoffensive way, he has wandered up and down the Union and to and fro in it.

When the war broke out J. N. imagined that on him fell the whole pressure of the misconceived struggle. He held that the North and South were both right and wrong—right from their own standpoints, but wrong from each other's. This he demonstrated by his theory, and has ever since been striving to solve its mystery and lift from it the veil that the public might see. When no one comes out to hear him at his appointed meetings, he is in the habit of applying to the sheriff, and demanding that he shall be incarcerated and martyred, if necessary for the truth.

We have thought that few of the editorial fraternity had their hands more full than the Rev. Gov. Brownlow; but he must hide his diminished head on hearing of the multifarious engagements of a brother typewriter in the "old North State," who edits a religious periodical, is an officiating minister of the Gospel, a licensed attorney at law, agent for nearly all the insurance companies north of the Potowmack, a Bank Director, Commissioner for thirty-one States, Chairman of the Board of Superintendents of Common Schools, a temperance orator, agent and counsel for a College, President and Secretary of all the Boards of the Baptist Church, &c.; and in addition to all that, he is said to own more property, and to have the neatest farm, the best fruit, and the finest cattle of any man in the country.

FORTY-TWO PERSONS POISONED—A letter to the Cincinnati Gazette, dated Indianapolis, Ind., 22d inst., says:

A very distressing occurrence took place at the Pyle House, in this city, last evening. The boarders of whom the house has a large number, were nearly all poisoned at supper, and some forty-two were taken sick and continued very ill during the night. They are all somewhat better this evening, but are not yet considered out of danger. The family of Mr. Pyle and the female servants were also attacked. Various theories have been suggested to account for the strange phenomenon, but none are thoroughly satisfactory. Some think the poison was in the milk, while others ascribe the sickness to some blackberries which were provided for supper.

OUTRAGEOUS CONDUCT—The Nashville Press and Times of July 14 gives the following particulars of a "damnable insult" offered to the Union flag at Gallatin on the 4th of July, by the Rebels of that State. It says:

"The flag was not only torn down, but the blaspheming and sacrilegious Unionists actually tied one end of it to the tail of a cow and the other end of it to the tail of a dog, and then drove them well nigh through the streets, while the sacred symbol of the country was dragged through the dirt and trodden under foot."

OF THE 360,000 BLACKS IN THE STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, ONLY 3,204 ARE RECEIVING RATIONS. One hundred and nineteen schools are now in operation, with one hundred and thirty-five teachers, the daily attendance averaging 9,034. The destitution among the whites and blacks in various parts of the State is being gradually relieved.

MURDER—The Chicago Tribune brings us the details of a terrible combat which took place on board the bark Peashoot, near that city. The mate, Patrick Cambridge, and a seaman named William Moore, hacked at each other with knives until the former fell dead. The survivor had received seventeen wounds in the back, one in the neck and five in the face. It is expected that he will recover. The verdict of the coroner's jury declared that Moore killed his antagonist in self-defense.

Congress by a recently enacted law, appropriated sixty thousand dollars for the purchase of cereal, vegetable and flower seeds. Also, fourteen thousand dollars for the propagation and distribution of the plants, cuttings and shrubs, which are to be restricted to such as are adapted to general cultivation, and to promote the general interests of horticulture and agriculture.

EIGHT DAYS FROM NEW YORK TO IRELAND.—For the first time in the history of steam navigation, a screw steamer has made the voyage from New York to the Irish coast in eight days. The fortunate vessel was the City of Paris, Capt. James Kennedy, of the Limerick line. Her average daily run was a little over 321 miles.

The number of emigrants arriving at Castle Garden during the first half of the present month was 17,202. For the entire month of July, 1865, the number was 21,290. The vessels yet to arrive will probably increase the number of arrivals this year to nearly 80,000.

TWO SUDDEN DEATHS.—Mr. F. Cronise, an old and respectable citizen of Frederick county, Md., living in the vicinity of Lewisburg, died suddenly last week. Mr. Haunt, living near Greencastle, was found dead in his wheat field.

Married,

NOTICE THE MODEL SEWING MACHINE. (From the New York Herald)

Prominent among the mechanical triumphs of that most ingenious age, common honesty compels us to notice the Empire Sewing Machine, commended as justly styled perfection itself. Useful as have been various sewing machines, from time to time presented to the public, each one of them has been cursed with some radical defect, which detracts from general utility. Warned by the experience of his predecessors, the inventor of the Empire Machine has produced an instrument, combining all the advantages for which others are vaunted, and obviating every defect which can be attributed to them by the most fastidious critic.

The Empire Machine is a marvellous combination of simplicity, economy and perfect workmanship, being durable, free from liability to get out of order, noiseless, and easy of operation. Its mechanical contrivances is such as to secure stability, freedom from accident, and accuracy as to workmanship. By the use of the patented shuttle and straight needle, it makes a stitch, which can neither rip nor ravel, while, at the same time, it can operate perfectly upon every species of material from leather to cambric, with threads of cotton, linen or silk, from the finest to the coarsest number.

As the Empire Machine is gradually supplanting its more antiquated rivals, no one in want of a useful instrument of this description, be he a sailor, tailor, coachmaker, dressmaker or seamstress, can do otherwise than secure one of these economical and imitable machines, suited alike for family and manufacturing purposes. The office of the Empire Manufacturing Co. is at No. 536 Broadway, New York City, where they are now supplying these Empire Machines at prices far below the real value of the instruments.—N. Y. THE GROVESTEEN PIANO FORTE still retains its precedence and great popularity, and after undergoing gradual improvements for a period of thirty years, is now pronounced by the musical world to be unsurpassed and even unequalled in richness, volume, and purity of tone, durability and cheapness. Our new scale, French action, harp pedal, iron frame over-strung bass, seven octave, rosewood pianos we are selling, cheaper by from 100 to $200 than the same style and finish are sold by any other first-class makers in the country. Dealers and all in want of good pianos are invited to send for our Descriptive Catalogue which contains photographs of our different styles, together with prices. No one should purchase a piano without seeing this Catalogue. Medals, almost without number, have been awarded to the Grovesteen Piano, and at the celebrated World's Fair, though put in competition with others from all parts of Europe and the United States, it took the highest award.

Editor of THE SENTINEL:
Dear Sir—A report has been put in circulation that I had withdrawn my name as a candidate for Sheriff. This is to inform the public that there is not the least truth in it, and call upon my friends throughout the County to attend the Delegate Meetings, and stand honest true men as Delegates to the County Convention.

NASH. G. CAMP.
Butler twp., July 28, 1866.

Fat Mutton.

Our good Union friend, SAMUEL FREEMAN, of Straban township, has a splendid animal of the Sheep kind, which he tells us this morning weighs now 235 lbs., and will weigh 250 lbs. by the election. He says he is of the "Geary breed"—towering above all his fellows; and as Gen. Geary will sweep the field in October, so will this beautiful animal at the Fall Fair in Bendersville, where he will be exhibited. He thinks he can't beat him! He challenges any Clymerite to the contest!

More Pic-Nics.

The Sunday School connected with St. James' (Lutheran) Church held their Annual Pic-Nic at Spangler's Spring on last Tuesday. There was a good turn out and everything passed off pleasantly.

The Sunday School connected with the College Church (Lutheran) also held a Pic-Nic at the same place on Wednesday. They too had a delightful time.

Increase of Pay.

The Senate of the United States, on Thursday last, passed a bill increasing the pay of Senators, members and Delegates, to five thousand dollars a year! It has not yet been acted on in the House of Representatives. Its passage there is somewhat doubtful, as the members of that Branch are more directly amenable to the people—who might kick against such an increase.

Both Houses of Congress were busily occupied in closing up business, and remained in session until a late hour at night. In the Senate the credentials of Mr. Patterson, Senator from Tennessee, were referred to the Judiciary Committee, to inquire whether he can take the oath required by Congress, it being alleged that he had acted as Judge under the Rebel Government, and taken an oath of allegiance to that so called Government. Mr. Doolittle, in the course of a debate, admitted that Mr. Patterson had held office under the Rebel Government and taken the oath of allegiance to it, but that he said when he took the oath "that he spit upon it and scorned it."

The Deficiency Bill was finally passed, the Senate persistently rejecting the amendment to increase the pay of the Clerks in the Department at Washington.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE. for August, contains several illustrated articles—the leading one being on "Homes without Hands," the third paper on a very interesting branch of Natural History—the second, an account of the detention of Mr. Moens, an Englishman, during his captivity among Italian Brigands, and the third, another paper in the series relating to the war with the Rebellion by J. S. C. Abbott, containing the story of the capture of New Orleans from the rebels, and the other measures by which the Mississippi was opened to commerce. All the engravings accompanying the articles are finely executed on wood and really illustrative of the text. The other articles in the Magazine are varied in topic and interest, and maintain its high reputation.
